Item 2. Relationships and Services

“What investment services and advice can you provide me?”

Description of Services and Monitoring: We offer brokerage services to retail investors. Unless stated otherwise, we only act in the capacity of a broker-dealer for your account. This includes recommending various types of securities transactions including mutual funds, equity securities, government and corporate bonds, municipal securities, and exchange traded funds.

Our engagement with you, and recommendation to purchase, sell or hold, is at the particular point in time that we discuss the recommendation with you.

Investment Authority: You, the retail investor, make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments. We do not exercise discretionary investment authority in your brokerage account (i.e., make decisions to buy or sell your investments without your direction) or monitor your brokerage account investments for you. This means that you are responsible for reviewing your account and investments to make sure your investment mix is appropriate for you and for deciding whether to follow our investment recommendations.

Limited Investment Offerings: We do not make available or offer advice with respect to proprietary products, or a limited menu of products or types of investments. We do not offer investment advisory services to retail investors.

Account Minimums and Other Requirements: You do not need to have a minimum amount to invest to open a brokerage account with us, but some of the investments you may purchase through us have minimum investment requirements. For more information regarding minimum investment requirements, please refer to the prospectus or offering documents for your investment.

Item 3. Fees, Costs, Conflicts, and Standards of Conduct

“What fees will I pay?”

Description of Principal Fees and Costs: FNBB’s fees are based on the types of services we provide. Generally, for our brokerage services you will pay transaction-based fees for each transaction. These will include a commission based on the value of the transaction, or a flat fee per transaction. For some transactions, particularly fixed income securities, you will be charged a mark-up on purchases or a mark-down on sales. For example, when you purchase a security from us, the price you pay will include a mark-up from the price at which we purchased the security or the current market price. Conversely, when you sell a security through us the price you receive will be less than the price at which we will sell the security in the market. Commissions, mark-ups and mark-downs will be disclosed in writing on the transaction confirmation. The more we trade in your account, the more you will pay in fees, and we therefore have an incentive to encourage you to trade often.

Description of Other Fees and Costs: Some investments, such as mutual funds, impose additional fees that will reduce the value of your investments over time. Those fees may include distribution and marketing payments from mutual funds (12b-1 fees), mutual fund expenses and surrender charges. These fees are disclosed to you in the mutual fund prospectus prior to your purchase. In addition to the foregoing fees, our clearing and custody partner, Hilltop Securities, Inc., may assess certain fees associated with your brokerage account such as transaction fees, custodial fees, liquidation fees and maintenance fees. A listing of these fees is provided to you at account opening or upon request.

“What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?”

When we provide you with a recommendation, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- When we purchase securities for you as your agent, we charge a commission on the transaction. This creates the incentive for us to trade more frequently in your account.
- We may engage in principal trading where we sell to or purchase from you a security from our own account. This creates the incentive for us to increase the markup or markdown to you or to trade more frequently in your account.
- We may receive 12b-1 fees in connection with certain mutual fund recommendations. This creates a financial incentive for us to recommend you invest in a share class that pays 12b-1 fees.
- We have arrangements with our clearing firm to share in certain fees and charges derived from your account including money market interest and other administrative charges which creates an incentive for us to increase the trading in your account.

“How do your financial professionals make money?”

Description of How Financial Professionals Make Money: The way our financial professionals make money creates conflicts of interest. Financial professionals are generally compensated based on a share of the commissions and other fees charged to your account. As stated previously the way we make money creates an incentive for our financial professionals to engage in excessive trading, or engaging in transactions that may not be in your best interest. You should be aware of these conflicts as they provide an incentive for FNBB or its financial professionals to place their interest ahead of yours. However, we have established supervisory policies, procedures and controls designed to eliminate, mitigate or disclose these conflicts to you.
